The office of the Dean of Students caters for non-academic aspects of student life, in particular, matters relating to student welfare and conduct.

The office of the Dean of Students maintains a regular counseling service to students individually or in groups. The aim is to provide an opportunity for the students to discuss their problems and assist them in being realistic about themselves, their potential, independence, and ability to solve their own problems.

Vocational and Career Guidance Services are provided by discussing vocational plans with students and advising government and employment agencies about graduating students and their career interests. Meetings are organized for representatives of various companies, government and firms at the University to address students on career opportunities.
